

The 134th Annual Meeting of the California Society, SAR

The Orange County Chapter did a superb job in hosting the 134th Annual Meeting of the State Society under the leadership of Chairman Rex Shannon. The Master of Cereomies, State President President Stephen R. Renouf conducted the two day meeting with dignity and maintained the agenda schedule. Forty-seven delegates attended representing fifteen Chapters, Coachella Valley, Gold Country, General George S. Patton, Harbor, Kern, Mother Lode, Orange County, Redlands, Riverside, Sacramento, San Diego, San Francisco, Sons of Liberty, South Coast and Thomas Jefferson. The luncheons and banquet attendees numbered almost 100. Guardsmen from eleven Chapters participated in the ceremonies.

Friday's luncheon, "The Community Service Honors Luncheon", where the Law Enforcement Medal was presented to Officer Mark Black of the Tustin Police Department, The Medical Service Medal was presented to Larry Grihalva of the Costa Mesa and the Fire Safety Commendation Medal to Captain Doug Hanson of the Orange Countu Fire Authority.

The balance of the day was spent on committee meetings followed by the California Society President's Dinner at Leatherby's Cafe Rouge.

Saturday's meeting started with the Past State President's breakfast, attended by eight former presidents, the most in many years. At 9:00 a.m. the General Session of the Annual Meeting started. At the same time the Ladies Auxiliary met, with State President Coreena Ross presiding. These meetings were followed by "The Youth Honors Luncheon". After an excellent lunch former State President

Marston Watson, presented a brief program on "Wreaths Across America" program, which the SAR was heavily involved. Presentations were made to all of our Society's youth programs. The Eagle Scout recipient was Robert Morgan, sponsored by the Redlands Chapter, the JROTC contest winner was Cadet Chris Windley, spon-

Essay contest winner was Jared Lopez, sponsored by the Redlands Chapter. The Poster Contest was judged by the delegates to the Annual Meeting and first place went to Haily LeBar, sponsored by the Gold Country Chapter, Second Place winner, Amy Bradshaw, sponsored by Gold Country Chapter, third place Mia Banini Holly, Mother Lode Chapter, and

IMPORTANT ANNOUCEMENT

This is the last printed edition of the California Compatriot. See below.

At the April 19th, 2009 Annual Meeting of the California Society a difficult decision was reached regarding the distribution of this newsletter, The California

Compatriot. This will be the last issue printed and mailed.

All future issues will be placed on the State Society's web site. This drastic action was taken owing to the raising costs of printing and the additional requirements placed on us by the U.S. Post Office. If each Compatriot would kindly notify our State Secretary of your current E-mail address, you will be sent a notification that the latest edition of the newsletter has been published on said web site.

For those Compatriots that do not have a computer, they are encouraged to make arrangements with their Chapter to have a copy printed.

I'M SAK. AKE YUU T

STATE PRESIDENT
THE RT. REV. LOUIS CARLSON

Compatriot Brothers,

In my first communication with the membership of the California Society SAR, as the State President, I want to express my thanks and appreciation to all of you around the Golden State for your support and encouragement over the years. It may seem strange to begin ones work with reminiscing, but memories of SAR State meetings are one of my greatest treasures.

When I first joined the SAR in Orange County, I really enjoyed meeting with the guys for lunch and a speaker. Our chapter had strong leadership which meant we had great meetings. Pretty soon I was asked to serve as chapter chaplain, then chapter vice president... and I have held some office in the SAR ever since.

I began attending State Conventions when the meeting was held in Orange County, at Knott's Berry Farm. I didn't know anyone and didn't have a clue what they were talking about at the meetings, but stuck around anyway - - and the Hospitality Room was great!! At Pacifica, California., I was elected CASSAR Chaplain, which freed then Chaplain Rev. Dr. Stan De Long to start moving through the chairs to become CASSAR President, then National Society Chaplain General. He served with distinction at every level of our society.

At state conventions I began to get to know men from all over the California Society, patriots and gentlemen all (well, almost all!!) and started making friendships that have become primary relationships in my (and my wife, Karen's) life. Everywhere the meetings went, as they moved around California, I met new compatriot brothers who are among the finest men I have ever known. Like all friendships, the more time you spend together, the more your friendship grows. So, I found myself attending every State Convention and loving it. My wife accompanied me and became very active in the Ladies Auxiliary. Together, the SAR has become a huge part of our lives, and, oh, the stories we could tell......

The key, I think, to our work in California Society is our broader commitment to the SAR at all levels. I believe in the goals and mission of the National Society and in the role the California Society is playing to achieve those goals. I believe that our nation needs an organization like the SAR (and other like minded organizations) to preserve, defend and promote the true history of the American Revolution. I KNOW our nation needs all men, like you, who have learned about their heritage, joined the Sons of the American Revolution and stand ready to serve.

I have said all this to say: Becoming an active member of my SAR chapter has changed my life and made it better. Becoming active in State Society meetings has given me a huge new circle of friends (and "family") that has equally changed my life and made it better, much better.

I invite every member of the California Society Sons, of the American Revolution. to do as I did. Re-dedicate yourself to your local chapter meetings and leadership. Run for an office, any office, in your chapter and begin to learn what an amazing organization we serve. Invite your family, your wife, your sons or grandsons to join you at local meetings. Enjoy the fellowship and build new friendships. Talk about the SAR with your neighbors and co-workers. Wear your SAR Rosette (if you lost the one you were given when you joined, get another one, OR call me and I'll mail you a lapel pin. Call 714-997-4113!!). Volunteer for chapter and patriotic activities. Make the commitment, donate the time!! You'll have more fun than you think and build memories to share for a lifetime.

The theme for my year as State President is "IAM SAR". We, each one of us, are part of a wonderful organization. It isn't perfect, but it needs each and every one of us to help it achieve its goals. And while we are helping, we can reap the rewards of active membership, active patriotism and active enjoyment. Join me for a great year with SAR.

Rt. Rev. Lou Carlson President California Society Sons of the American Revolution

From the Ladies Auxiliary President's Pen

We send patriotic greetings from the new Ladies Auxiliary officers to all LAUX members, CASSAR wives and CASSAR Compatriots! The following officers will be at your service this year, please feel free to contact them.

President:

Mrs. Louis (Karen) Carlson,
Orange County Chapter

1st Vice President

Mrs. Charles (Ann) Lampman,
Riverside Chapter

2nd Vice President

Mrs. Larry (Barbara) Magerkurth, Orange County Chapter Secretary:

Mrs. Karl (Sandy) Jacobs, Harbor Chapter Treasurer:

Mrs. Michael (Catherine) Howard, San Diego Chapter Registrar:

Mrs. John (Karen) Dodd, Orange County Chapter Chaplain:

Mrs. Phillip (Jean) Dodson, Kern Chapter Historian:

Mrs. Dale (Coreena) Ross, Gold Country Chapter

We would like to pass along some news from the recent Spring LAUX Board and Membership meetings held in Costa Mesa, CA. The news has financial importance (now we have everyone's attention!!). First, the annual dues for LAUX membership have been raised by $5.00 and are now $10.00, still a modest sum, but needed to cover expenses. Second, we have discontinued and abolished the LAUX Life Membership fund. There are two reasons for this action: the Internal Revenue Service/Sarbanes-Oaxley legislation and regulations make it impossible to administer the LAUX Life Membership fund. And, secondly, the fund is not (and never was) self-sustaining. All Life Members will have the honor of retaining their original membership number and will be permanently recorded as "Founding LAUX Members". Life Members will also receive a letter detailing their choices as to the disposition of their original $100.00 Life Membership contribution. Life Members will be able to designate if they wish to donate their money to the LAUX Congress fund or receive a full refund. Life Members a/k/a/ Founding Members will need to pay the $10.00 annual dues beginning in 2010. All other members have already been billed at the new $10.00 rate. Our hearty thanks go out to those chapters who pay the dues for their ladies. We look forward to a great year.

The California Society Annual Color Guard Awards

At each Annual Meeting the Color Guards from the several Chapters are recognized for their achievements during the preceding year. The selection is divided into Large, Medium and Small for fairness. With the growth of our Color Guards each year the selection is more difficult. In addition, one, and only one, Color Guardsman is selected as "Color Guardsman of the Year" and presented the Gold von Stueben Color Guard medal. He is selected by the State President and State Color Guard Commander. Other Guardsmen are singled out for their service as well.

President Stephen Renouf presented the "Best Large Chapter Award" to the Sacramento Chapter. Compatriot Jim Faulkinbury Accepting.

PRESIDENT STEPHEN RENOUF PRESENTED THE "BEST MEDIUM SIZED CHAPTER AWARD"

From its modest beginnings as a 12-room adobe boarding house to its current stature consisting of 239 guest rooms, the Mission Inn Hotel has been a major tourist attraction in Southern California since 1876. In the late 1800's wealthy easterners and Europeans flocked to Riverside in search of a warmer winter climate along with the desire to invest in the area's profitable citrus industry.

In 1903 the 'Mission' wing was built in Mission-

Revival style architecture and sought to incorporate different structural elements of the 21 California Missions. Over the years the hotel has served as host to numerous celebrities and dignitaries. ### Who Will Tell Our Story?

TOM ADAMS

My name is Tom Adams. I am your newly appointed Education and Youth Program Director. I would like to introduce myself by sharing with you a recent personal experience.

Our local El Dorado Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, reported in their Newsletter how they had visited an after school program at an elementary school; many in colonial costumes which greatly raised the interest of the children. The boys and girls were told the story of the writing of the poem for the Star Spangled Banner, and the symbolism of our national flag. Then they all sang the National Anthem with the children learning how to salute the flag. The boys and girls then divided into grade levels and selected several of the 41 books donated by the chapter on the American Revolution and colonial times. The younger children were read to and the older ones participated in round robin reading. It was a rousing success.

I sent them an e-mail congratulating them on their effort. I saw on their web site they were planning a presentation on "Women in the American Revolution", another interest of mine, so I decided to selfinvite myself to their next meeting and personally tell them how important I felt their work with children is. WHO WILL TELL AMERICA'S REAL STORY - WE WILL! Regardless of your role or partici-

Before I went to their meeting I decided to equip myself with some knowledge, as well as to share what I learned. I did an Internet search on the very title of the planned talk, "Women in the American Revolution", and I was rewarded with an exact match: a 5,463 word article on Wikipedia. While Wikipedia is not your father's authoritative Encyclopedia Britannica, I have come to accept it as the knowledge base of the current culture; what is currently believed and what is being taught.

When I read the article, I found that the first 17% dealt 12 -The California Compatriot - Spring 2009 with women in the middle of the 1700s in general. They were food gatherers and preparers; they managed the households from a cabin in the wilderness to a plantation. That made sense. Then there was a surprisingly large section, 30%, that dealt exclusively with Native American Woman. As we know, most of the Indians fought on the side of the British. This article discussed the lives of the woman in the various tribes, the Iroquois, Cherokee and Catawba. Then there was another large section, 29% that covered only African American Woman. Most Negroes in this period were slaves; some belonged to lovalist families and others to patriot families. Next there was a small section (10%) that covered the women who did not support the revolution, the Tories. It talked about what their life was like and their option to immigrate to Canada as many did. If you have been keeping count, that leaves a whopping 14% of the article to talk about the Patriot Women; that predominantly European descent, white, Christian, people who settled in North America and founded this nation.

Before I go further, let me make it clear, I am not sharing this with you in anger, frustration or protest. I'm just simply pointing out reality.

I learned more from that Internet search than I had ever imagined. If you are anything like me, you probably thought a 5,000 word article on the "Women in the American Revolution," would be mainly about the white, Christian, patriot woman. Think again. Those days are past. Long past. For the last 20 to 30 years as a culture we have progressively moved into an inclusive view of history.

pation in a historical event, you're only going to get a portion of the attention in the public space. No one is going to tell your and my story. I now had more praise and respect for what the DAR is trying to do in their programs to educate our young ones. Once I absorbed the impact of what that article was telling me, I dove into our local SAR Poster Contest that was just being launched. In our first year of existence, our Chapter President coaxed three posters out of one 5th grade class because he knew the teacher. This year, we went into three schools and we reached over 200 young people and were rewarded with 33 posters! Next year we need to do it all over again, and more.

Let us all be reminded of the purpose of the SAR: "... to perpetuate the stories of patriotism, courage, sacrifice, tragedy, and triumph of the men who achieved the independence of the American people in the belief that these stories are universal ones of man's eternal struggle against tyranny, relevant to all time, and will inspire and strengthen each succeeding generation as it too is called upon to defend our freedoms on the battlefield and in our public institutions."

Here is the simple truth, if we, the Sons of the American Revolution and organizations like the DAR don't do it, no one will. And if enough time passes without our stepping up, all will be forgotten.

But here is some good news. We learned from just the few visits we made to our local schools that the administrators, and especially the teachers, are very supportive and open to our programs. All we really need to do is show up and tell our story.... So let's do that - - for the sake of the Children.

THE GOLD COUNTRY AND SACRAMENTO CHAPTERS "MISSING IN AMERICA PROJECT"

by: Jim Faulkinbury

On May 20th, the Sacramento and Gold Country Chapters of the Sons of the American Revolution participated as the Honor Guard in the "Missing in America Project's Honors at Arlington Send-Off Ceremony" for three distinguished veterans. The Missing in America Project is an organization started in Redding, California by a group of Vietnam Veterans whose purpose is to locate the unclaimed remains of veterans and arrange for their proper military burial at the nation's various National Cemeteries. The organization, still centered in Redding, now has members all across the country.

On May 20th, a special sendoff ceremony was held in the parking lot of Arco Arena in Sacramento. This send-off was special because the remains being escorted by a motorcycle riding contingent of veterans were those of highly decorated veterans whose service qualifies them for a burial in Arlington National Cemetery, the Nations most prestigious final resting place for veterans. They were First: Isaiah Mays, a Buffalo Soldier, who was born a slave in 1858 and received the Congressional Medal of Honor in 1890 and died a pauper in a pauper's grave behind the

Arizona State Hospital because Congress refused to give a black man a pension in 1920, Second: Navy Boatswain's Mate 1st Class and Silver Star recipient, Johnnie Callahan, who during WW II grabbed a live bomb that had dropped unexploded on the deck of his ship and managed to throw it overboard before it went off, and Third: James W. Dunn, a combat medic in the 101st Airborne during the Vietnam War who also received the Silver Star for his actions amid fire in rescuing seriously wounded comrades from the battle field. Following the ceremony, the remains will begin a six-day trip across the country to Arlington. Over 200 motorcycle groups throughout the United States have been enlisted to accompany the procession as it goes along the route to their final resting place.

As one of the participants in this moving ceremony, I feel a very special honor in having been asked to be a part of this noteworthy event.

THE HARBOR CHAPTER RESOLVES A PROTOCOL PROBLEM

THE WRONG WAY!

THE RIGHT WAY!

During the recent holiday season, several Compatriots of the Harbor Chapter noticed a problem in El Segundo. As you can see in the photo to the right, banners were hung ABOVE the American flag. This disregard for protocol was pointed out by members of the SAR to the Mayor, City Council, and City Manager of El Segundo. It took a couple of "letters to the editor" in local news papers to get this problem resolved. After several weeks, the Mayor of El Segundo, Kelly McDowell, instructed the Streets and Maintenance Department to correct this problem. As you can see in the second photograph, the American flags are now properly displayed in relation to the banners in El Segundo. Persistence does pay off.

As an aside, the American flags are flown throughout the downtown area, by City Council decree in 2003 until the war in Iraq is over.

The 27th Annual "George Washington Massing of the Colors and Salute to our Armed Forces" was an unqualified success. President General David Appleby was the keynote speaker, and was joined by the leadership of several organizations and the U.S. Military represented by several General Officers.

Fifty-four color guards participated along with all five branches of our Armed Forces. The Mountain Fife and Drums, forty strong, led by Kevin Garland, supplied the music along with the Bag Pipes furnished by former State Chaplain Gary Alan Dickey. The California Society State Officers participated en-masse!

The annual event was sponsored by the Sons of Liberty Chapter. Chapter President Douglas Bradley served as Master of Ceremonies. Chaplains Rev. Victor Springer, Rev. Phil Dobson, Brigadier General Stephen Kirtley, Rt. Rev. Louis Carlson handled the memorial portions of the ceremonies. Lt. Colonel David

President George Washington" "I do not have a moment for genealogy!" - Really?

Researching the life of anyone from the past leaves unanswered questions. In spite of the numerous books, surviving letters and journals, questions about George Washington still exist. The General's consistent use of a Coat of Arms and at the same time his well known statement: "I have little moment for genealogy" 'moment' meaning 'time' in the 18th century. It would then appear to be a contradiction, We believe we have found the answer to this puzzling question.

Among the treasured documents preserved at the Huntington Library in San Marino, California, exists a portfolio of original letters exchanged between George Washington and Sir Isaac Heard, Garter Principal, King of Arms, London, England. These letters concern a request for genealogical information on the American Washington family. Sir Isaac wrote then President Washington on December 7th, 1791:

"From a sincere respect for the distinguished character of Your Excellency, I made a genealogical collection, many years ago, relative to the Family of Washington, originally from Lancashire, branches of which were established in the Counties of Northampton, Kent and Wilts, enjoying ample possessions. Several of the family had been knighted in the early part of the last century. Exclusive of the Heralds Visitations & various Registers & M.S.S. preserved among the archives of this college, I procured Extracts from several Parochial Registers & copies of monumental inscriptions in different parts of this Kingdom. I likewise obtained lists of, & inspected the Wills & Administrations of any of the Name from the Reign of Queen Elizabeth to the present time; in the hope of proving the exact connection of your branch, tho' this is not fully accomplished yet. If your Excellency will have the goodness to complete the imperfect sketch of your Pedigree here inclosed, & make such additions as may be in your power, I have no doubt but the connecting link will be clearly supplied.

George Washington

Your Excellency will observe, that I have obtained a part of your own Pedigree from the Will of Laurence Washington in Virginia dated 11 March 1696/7 & proved in London 10 Dec<sup>r</sup> 1700, an abstract of which is enclosed, as well as Abstracts of two administrations. the family arms, of which a small painting accompanies this, were confirmed in the Reign of Queen Elizabeth by Clarenceux, King of Arms to Laurence Washington, Esquire, Lord of the Manor of Sulgrave in Northamptonshire. I should have transmitted by this occasion the ancient part of the Pedigree of Washington including the different branches, but I should feel a particular gratification if Your Excellency will condescend to enable me previously to complete my collection by showing the descent in one view. I have requested Mr. Thornton to lay this before Your Excellency & to receive the honor of any commands Your excellency may be pleased to confer on.

> Your Excellency's most respectful & most obedient Humble Servant, Isaac Heard, Carter

One of the surviving documents sent by Sir Isaac was a sketch of the heraldic stained glass windows found at Sulgrave Manor (which in found on page 19). We can safely assume that the reason for the inquiry by Sir Isaac Heard was official. The Heralds of England were responsible for documenting the genealogies of their countrymen, and owing to George Washington's international fame, he was considered, at least by the English, to be one of them. These letters, plus other surviving letters form an intriguing pattern. Washington responded to Sir Isaac on May 2nd, 1792, but only after corresponding with some of his kinsmen. He wrote on March 24th, 1792 to Hannah, widow of Warner Washington. "Dear Madam, Having lately received from Sir Isaac Heard a letter, with a sketch of a genealogical table of the family of Washington, I have taken the liberty to enclose copies of them to you, begging your assistance to enable to comply with the request he made (if among the papers of my deceased relation there be any trace of this matter) that I will complete the sketch, by making the additions which are there wanting, or rather filling up the blanks. as I have heretofore paid but little attention to this subject, and my present avocation not permitting me to make the necessary research now, I am induced to ask your aid . . . . "

Washington wrote a similar letter to Hannah Bushrod, the widow of his brother John Augustine Washington. Her response on April 9th, was copied by Washington almost verbatim > in his response to Sir Isaac of May 2nd, 1792. "Sir:

collections relative to the family of Washington. This is a subject to which I confess I have paid very little attention. My time has been so much occupied in the busy and active scenes of life from an early period of it that but a small portion of it could have been devoted to researches of this nature, even if my inclination of particular circumstances should have prompted the inquiry. I am therefore apprehensive that it will not be in my power (circumstanced as I am at present) to furnish you with materials to fill up the sketch which you have sent me, in so accurate a manner as you could wish. We have no Office of Record in this Country in which exact genealogical documents are preserved; and very few cases, I believe, occur where a recurrence to pedigree for any considerable distance back has been found necessary to establish such points as may frequently arise in older Countries.

The Washington Coat of Arms

On comparing the Tables which you sent with such documents as are in my possession, and which I could readily obtain from another branch of the family with whom I am in the habit of correspondence I find it to be just. I have often heard others of the family, older than myself, say that our ancestors who first settled in this Country came from some one of the Northern Counties of England, but whether from Lancashire, Yorkshire or one still more northerly I do not precisely remember. The Arms enclosed in your letter are the same that are held by the family here, though I have also seen, and have used as you may perceive by the Seal to this Packet a flying Griffen for the Crest.

If you can derive any information from the enclosed lineage which will enable you to complete your table, I shall be well pleased in having been the means to assist you in those researches which you have had the politeness to undertake, and shall be glad to be informed of the results, and of the ancient pedigree of the family, some of whom I find intermixed with the Ferrers &ca. Lawrence Washington, from whose Will you enclose an abstract was my Grand father; the other abstracts (which you sent) do not, I believe, relate to the family of Washington in Virginia; but of this I cannot speak positively.

> With due consideration I am etc. George Washington

Enclosed in his letter to Sir Isaac were seven pages detailing the early Washingtons of Virginia. Six years later, on April 5th, 1798, George Washington wrote his cousin Colonel William Washington a letter concerning several family matters and in the 7th paragraph he asked William: "Did you ever receive a letter from me transmitting the request of Sir Isaac Heard of the Heraldry Office in England respecting the Genealogy of our family? and my own desires to be furnished with the Inscriptions on the Tombs of our Ancestors on [illegible] Bridges Creek? Among your father's Papers, I thought it was likely, you might obtain some information on this head. From the coming over of John and

The Washington

In the case of President George Washington consider the difficult position he found himself in. Even the slightest hint that he was interested in genealogy, without his qualifying statement he made in every letter on the subject ("of little moment to me") would provide his political enemies with ammunition. That information would permit them to attack him on the grounds that he was planning on establishing a Washington Dynasty, even crowning himself King.

Nevertheless, we have documentary evidence that he compiled a genealogical chart when he was twenty-one - - spent a great deal of time and effort to cooperate with a member of English aristocracy (Sir Isaac Heard) compiling his family history. Then six years after the first inquiry from Sir Isaac, he is still asking his family members for genealogical information. Was George Washington bitten by the 'genealogy bug?" His regard for heraldry (Coats of Arms, is well known and quite obvious. Today we have literally dozens of examples of his having used the Washington Coat of Arms. His book plates, his seals,

Colonel William Barton who was accepted as an expert on Heraldry, was a consultant to the Congressional Committee appointed to create the Great Seal of the United States, wrote George Washington on the subject of Coats of Arms. It appears he wanted 'his General's opinion on the subject before he proceeded. The President replied on September 7th, 1788:

".... it is far from my design to intimate an opinion that heraldry, coat-armour, Etc. might not be rendered conductive to public and private uses with us; or that they can have triot-Spring 2009 any tendency unfriendly to the purest spirit of republicanism.

On the contrary, a different conclusion is deductible from the practice of Congress and the States; all of which have established some kind of Armorial Devises to authenticate official instruments . . . . "

George Washington went on, in detail, discussing some of the problems that had arisen by those opposed to anything that sacked of nobility.

Since the subject was addressed in the Constitution, Article 1, Section 9: "No title of Nobility shall be granted by the United States: And no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title, of any kind whatever, from any King, Prince or Foreign State"

Obviously, this provision was discussed, or even debated, by the delegates to the Constitutional Convention, although it is basically the same verbiage that appears in the Articles of Confederation: Article VI states: "nor shall the United States in Congress assembled, or any of them, grant

any Title of nobility." George Washington, who served as Presiding officer of the Constitutional Convention knew of the deep seated resentment against 'title of nobility" by the American people. There is no doubt that George Washington opposed the system of hereditary aristocracy, but it is equally clear he was interested in genealogy, and obviously, from his use of, the related subject of heraldry.

Of interest is that in George Washington's personal library at Sir Isaac Heard's drawing of the Coats of Arms Mount Vernon, not a single book depicted on the stained glass windows in the great existed on the subject of heraldry or genealogy.

A special thanks to John Rhode-hamel, Curator of American Historical Manuscripts at the Huntington Library, San Marino, California for granting us permission to publish these letters.

Below we present two examples of Washington's Coat of Arms that he used.

Sir Isaac Heard, Principal King of Arms, England

SIR ISAAC HEARD (THE ONLY KNOWN PORTRAIT OF HIM)

Sir Isaac Heard is so interesting a public servant that it was thought a brief biographical description of him would be in order, in spite of the fact he did not participated in the American Revolution.

He was born on December 10th, 1730 at Ottery St. Mary's, Devonshire, the son of John and Elizabeth (Massey) Heard.

At age 15 Isaac joined the Royal Navy as a midshipman. Serving on board the H.M.S. Blandford off the coast of Guinea he was washed overboard and almost drowned. After leaving the Navy he became a merchant, travelling several times to America. In Boston he met and married Katherine Tyler, the widow of Captain David Ochterony. She had a son also named David who became a Major General in the East India Company. As a Herald he rose through their ranks, and in 1784 was appointed Garter, Principal King of Arms. In that position he was involved in planning numerous official ceremonies in London, among which was arranging the funeral of Admiral, Lord Horatio Nelson. Sir Isaac also designed and issued a grant of arms to Lord Nelson. His coat of arms was unique in that it was one of the first coats of arms depicting an actual scene - the Battle of the Nile. The style became known as landscape.

As evidenced by his correspondence with General Washington, he expanded the genealogical interests of the College of Arms to include America (as well as other British colonies). It is probable that because of his transatlantic cooperation America never established its own College of Arms. He died on April 29th, 1822, age 91. He was so highly respected that he was buried in St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, usually reserved for nobility.
